

DUB - SkinScanner Imaging

This is a high resolution ultrasound image showing the condition of the dermis. It gives an assessment of your skin's density and an indication of how well your skin is ageing.

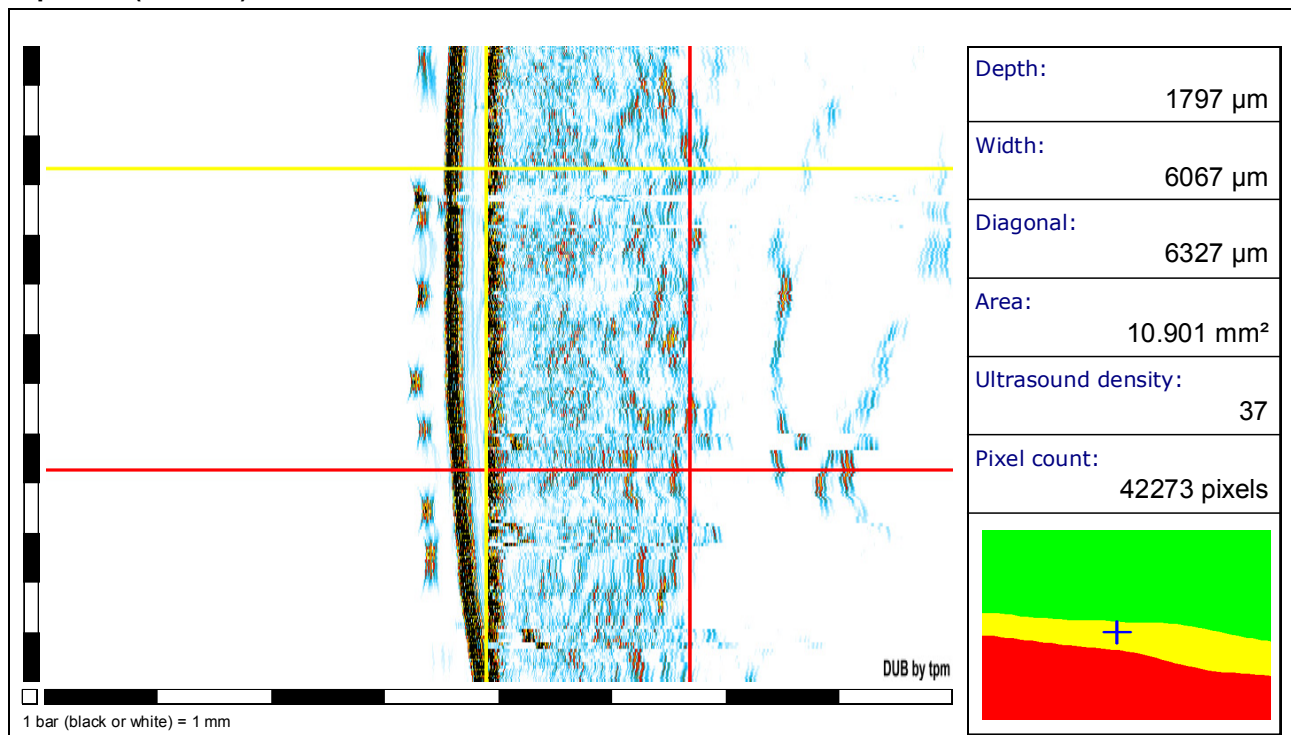

In the picture below, the outer black line represents the epidermis - the layer of skin you can see and touch. The coloured dots represent collagen, elastin and moisture retaining elements in the invisible dermal layer. The darker the colour and the more evenly distributed the dots, the better the quality of the skin.
